CAREERS GUIDANCE QUALIFICATIONS

Become a qualified careers guidance practitioner

Whether you work with young people or adults, in a school, college or the community, we can support your advice, guidance and professional development. We offer specialist training for those starting out as well as those looking to further their skills.

Expert accredited training

We are an approved OCR centre for careers guidance qualifications. Our specialist training programmes, delivered by dedicated and experienced advice and guidance professionals, upskill and empower candidates. Our training is taught through a combination of group work, work-based projects, workshops, research and tutorials with a range of assessment methods including direct observation in the workplace, assignments, professional discussion and a portfolio of evidence.

We can help you to gain a suite of professional qualifications:

- Advice and Guidance Level 3 (NVQ) Certificate
- Advice and Guidance Level 4 (NVQ) Diploma
- Career Information and Advice Level 4 Diploma
- Career Guidance and Development Level 6 Diploma
- Level 6 Career Leadership Certificate.

Customised and flexible

We offer a comprehensive suite of qualifications that allows you to design your own training programme, carefully tailored to your needs and setting. Your training can fit around you; we offer start dates throughout the year and you work at your own pace.

Build your own accredited course from units such as:

Sourcing, evaluating and using labour market information

Understanding and applying career guidance theory

Leading and managing career development work in an organisation

'I feel fully supported to learn and showcase my skills in a professional way. The online system makes submissions simple and easy, it also takes away any confusion to where documents need to go. You have been a wonderfully supportive assessor with an open and genuine caring manner. [Working with Education Development Trust] has been a very positive experience that works well alongside my role.'

Former student, Health Education England
